New AVP to focus on commercial lending.

SUGAR LAND (Aug. 25, 2009) – Founders Bank has promoted Kyle Atchison to assistant vice president, with responsibility for commercial banking.

Atchison’s primary focus will be helping companies achieve their financial objectives using Founders Bank’s extensive portfolio of business products and services.

“Kyle has proven himself to be a capable banker with strong analytical and client-service skills,” said Founders Bank CEO Jim Sturgeon. “He has prior experience in small business management and that really drives his passion for helping locally owned and managed businesses succeed.”

Atchison joined Founders Bank in January 2008 as a credit analyst. He is a graduate of Sam Houston State University, where he earned a bachelor’s degree in finance/banking and financial institutions.
